

IBCS

Unifying sensors and shooters across the battlespace to defeat complex threats

The Integrated Battle Command System (IBCS) links all domains in the battlespace, connecting sensors and shooters never designed to work together. It fuses sensor data for a single, actionable picture of the full battlespace, enabling rapid, informed decisions that optimize shooters to defeat threats. This proven, ready-now system ensures the warfighter has the best capabilities to take out threats.