

Agartha Larbi

Vice President,
Global Corporate Responsibility
Northrop Grumman

Agartha Larbi is vice president, Global Corporate Responsibility for Northrop Grumman, a company with a long-standing commitment to a culture of inclusion and belonging and making a positive impact in the communities where it operates and beyond. In this role, she shapes enterprise-wide strategy and execution across corporate citizenship, inclusion and belonging, culture and employee engagement—advancing community impact through charitable giving, employee volunteerism and strategic partnerships that strengthen communities and support the company's mission and customers.

She also serves as president of the Northrop Grumman Foundation, overseeing philanthropic activities and partnerships focused on expanding access to the technical workforce, removing barriers to education and responding to natural disasters.

Larbi previously served as senior director, Human Resources for the Operations, Quality Assurance and Manufacturing organization within Northrop Grumman's Mission Systems sector, where she led talent strategy and supported business transformation initiatives for more than 9,000 employees across the United States.

Larbi has more than 20 years of Human Resources experience, including 18 years with Northrop Grumman. Her background spans talent development, talent acquisition, international human resources and support for both profit and loss business areas and functional organizations. Prior to joining Northrop Grumman, she held Human Resources roles with STIHL and the Institute for Defense Analyses.

She holds a master's degree in industrial/organizational psychology and a bachelor's degree in psychology from George Mason University in Virginia.

Northrop Grumman is a leading global aerospace and defense technology company. Our pioneering solutions equip our customers with the capabilities they need to connect and protect the world and push the boundaries of human exploration across the universe. Driven by a shared purpose to solve our customers' toughest problems, our employees define possible every day.